

Calands Site

[00:00:01.88] Welcome to the GreenInfo Network California Protected Areas video series. Let's take a look at the calands.org site and review some of its key features. For CPAD and CCED, your go-to resource is calands.org. We'll walk through key features and resources found in the site. In the opening page if you scroll down, you'll find case studies of CPAD, like, the Parks for all Californians park access tool.

[00:00:39.01] Within the CPAD tab, you'll find general information on CPAD, such as what it includes, CPAD documentation like the user manual, and information on the structure. Within the CCED tab, it also contains general information on CCED. CCED documentation like the user manual and easement data policy document, and information on the structure.

[00:01:20.97] In the Contribute Data tab, you'll find a map collaborator hyperlink. If you have any issues with anything in the databases, go to the map collaborator application and tell us about it. You can also use that to upload your own data and see it in relation to CPAD and allow us to then download it. Or you can contact us directly by emailing CPAD at calands.org. We can always be reached there and would be happy to talk to you.

[00:01:53.55] In the About Our Work tab, you can subscribe to our newsletter and you can download a poster of the latest CPAD and CCED release. Lastly, in the Get Data button, you can download data and subscribe to our newsletter. Please sign up for the CPAD newsletter, because it's our way of staying in touch. And we promise we don't send newsletters very often. Just updates on the new releases. Thank you and we encourage you to continue exploring our video series.
